On July 8, 1919, the United States attorney for the Southern District of California, acting upon a report by the Secretary of Agriculture, filed in the District Court of the United States for said district a libel for the seizure and condemnation of 30 bottles of * * * Noxit, an injection, remaining unsold in the original unbroken packages at Los Angeles, Calif., alleging that the article had been shipped on or about March 22, 1919, by Frederick F. Ingram Co., Detroit, Mich., and transported from the State of Michigan into the State of California, and charging misbranding in violation of the Food and Drugs Act, as amended. The article was labeled in part: (Bottle) "Noxit an injection * * *;" (circular) "Noxit an injection * * * for the treatment of Gonorrhoea (Clap) and Gleet * * *."

Analysis of a sample of the article made in the Bureau of Chemistry of this department showed that it consisted essentially of a zinc salt, opium, berberine, glycerin, alcohol, and water.

Misbranding of the article was alleged in substance in the libel for the reason that certain statements, appearing on the labels of the bottles or packages, and representing the article as a treatment for gonorrhoea and gleet, were false and fraudulent in that the article contained no ingredient or combination of ingredients capable of producing the therapeutic effects claimed for it.

On October 23, 1919, no claimant having appeared for the property, judgment of condemnation and forfeiture was entered, and it was ordered by the court that the product be destroyed by the United States marshal.

7485. Adulteration of loganberry pulp. U. S. * * * v. 38 Cases of An Article of Food * * *. Default decree of condemnation, forfeiture, and destruction. (F. & D. No. 10557. I. S. No. 15724-r. S. No. E-1539.)

On June 11, 1919, the United States attorney for the District of Maryland, acting upon a report by the Secretary of Agriculture, filed in the District Court of the United States for said district a libel for the seizure and condemnation of 38 cases of an article of food labeled in part, "Loganberry Pulp," consigned on May 17, 1919, remaining unsold in the original unbroken packages at Baltimore, Md., alleging that the article had been shipped by F. M. Ball & Co., San Francisco, Calif., and transported from the State of California into the State of Maryland, and charging adulteration in violation of the Food and Drugs Act.

Adulteration of the article was alleged in the libel for the reason that it consisted in whole or in part of a filthy, decomposed, and putrid vegetable substance.

On September 15, 1919, no claimant having appeared for the property, judgment of condemnation and forfeiture was entered, and it was ordered by the court that the product be destroyed by the United States marshal.
